IGLM 1958-1991/92

CIMAGL 1969-

A rumour among historians of medieval philosophy has it that Iohannes de Vacua Silva composed a question Utrum maius sit melius, in the determination of which he introduced a number of distinctions to show that a simple sic or non answer does not do justice to the complexity of the issue. However, little attention was paid to John's subtle distinctions when it was recently decided to reduce the number of departments in the Faculty of Humanities in Copenhagen. Among the mergers planned for 1991/92 is one affecting the Institute of Greek and Latin Medieval Philology (IGLM), which issues this journal.

But, dear reader, do not panic if you hear that IGLM has ceased to exist. Its functions will be carried on by the present staff, and we intend to continue publication of CIMAGL. We already have rather detailed plans for the contents of N° 61.

As usual, there are two ways to acquire CIMAGL:

(1) You can order single copies or place a standing order with

Erik Paludan - International Boghandel
Fiolstræde 10, DK-1171 København K

(2) Institutions are invited to propose exchange arrangements. Please, address your letter to the editor,

Dr. Sten Ebbesen
Institute of Greek and Latin Medieval Philology
Njalsgade 90, DK-2300 København S

Just use our old institute name; the new one is still a unknown. We expect to be able to reveal it in the next issue of this journal.
